THE KNOXVILLE WHIG. Knoxville, Tennessee, August 2, 1865.

The Negro Population. editor we copy the following paragraphs:

The colored man and the white man cannot live had shut themselves up. together in this country: they must and will have to separate, unless the Congress of the Nation shall give them a place to themselves, for as it was with Abraham and Lot, so it is with us, the sooner we seek a home for our rising generation, the better it

Our final destiny, as far as I can dimly see, is that in three hundred years it will be a rare thing to see . a colored man in this country. Like the Indian, our race in this country is destined to become extinct, unless we move to ourselves. And after we shall have obtained the right of suffrage, I shall strongly advocate a treaty stipulation between the United States and our race, whereby we may live under the United States flag, but be spart to our selves, and even then we will become dissatisfied, for there is no historian that can point out an instance where two nations have ever lived together

One power must rule, and the other will not be least possible that the year may be signalized by the pleased; and if we don't separate in less than three invasion of that enemy which patriotism and courhundred years the colored man in this country will age cannot keep out of our island.—London Telebe a color between the Canadian Indian and the inhabitants of India. I could write a work upon this question, had I the means to put it in circulation. The immigration of the white race from Europe must increase, whilst the immigration of the black race must decrease, as the slave trade has been stopped, and the result is the African race in this country will finally run out, and all the property we may accumulate for our rising generation will avail us nothing unless we obtain a resting place of our own. Moreover, experience teaches that no two races can live together happily under one flag when they both are properly educated. Therefore, gentlemen, my by the constitution and his oath of office, "to take impartial opinion is, that this country is not our Haxall's, on the north side, where five hundred seres were cultivated, now lies barren. At Royall's a place of four hundred acres of cutivable land, there are now, perhaps, as many as thirty acres in corn.

As we have said, it is impossible to tell what is to be the fate of the country. The owners of the land and the Governor cannot, for a year at least, until there is an immigration of white laborers from Europe, obtain reliable labor. Such colored persons as can be induced to promise to labor are too fickle to be sufficiently re-fied upon to authorize planters to undertake extensive and expensive agricultural operations.

While they are waiting for the confiscation scheme to be disposed of and the country to settle down, the taxes, State and Federal, will eat up the estates. There is nothing for it, as it appears to us, but to trust in God and be of as good cheer as the surroundings will admit of. Virginia.

As Virginis was the headquarters of the robellion. and the scene of its decisive struggle, so it now promises to become the most interesting theatre of the problems of reconstruction. Great activity is shown by all classes of its citizens, whose contradictory claims are being pressed upon the attention of the Executive and the country. We have had recently, for instance, the address of a committee of loyal Virginians, praying that the Pierpont government may be set aside for its subserviency to rebel interests; the petition of a delegation to the President that he will strike out the $20,000 clause from the amnesty proclamation; and the address of Governor Pierpont to President Johnson, praying that he will give efficiency to the pardons proclaimed by President Lincoln

From these expressions of opinions, it will be seen that the several parties in the State are on the alert, and that a fierce political struggle is impending. So far as the matter depends upon the specific requests preferred to the President, it may be safely left to his decision. The great point of immediate interest is the course of Gov. Pierpoint. The address of the loyal Virginians referred to above makes very severe accusations. They say that, by his influence, the restriction of the right to vote to those who had not given aid and assistance to the rebellion since not given aid and assistance to the rebellion since

The Enoxville Whig been merely reappointments of those who held office under the last two rebel Governors, Letcher and Smith. In short, affairs are fast returning to precisely the same point where they would have been had the rebel organization been promptly acknowledged on the day of the fall of Richmond.

This is certainly a not very encouraging represen-tation. Those who make it, however, have the sir of sincerity, and they attest it by calling on the Federal Government to secure the elective franchise Menths.

The size and inportance of Virginia, and her contiguity to the loyal States, make her condition a subject of uni-versal interest, even aside from those considerations of vast moment which attach to the general condi-tion of the South.
